

About HASLC

Housing Authority
of St. Louis County

2023

What is Affordable Housing?

The term "affordable" is typically defined as less than 30% of a household's income spent on housing costs. Once a home-owner or renter is paying more than 30% of their income on housing, it generally means that there is less money for other essentials like food or health care.

What is a Housing Authority?

A government entity authorized to administer U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development housing programs.

3,500 public housing authorities in the country.

130 public housing authorities in Missouri.

HASLC's Mission

The Housing Authority of St. Louis County:

- provides decent, safe and affordable housing, ensures equal housing opportunity,
- promotes self-sufficiency, and
- improves the quality of life and economic vitality for low- and moderate-income families.

The Authority pursues these goals by using existing federal programs to the maximum feasible extent, by linking with other service providers, and by creating new opportunities of its own design.
